News and Notes from Cheryl

Hi from the Library! As I write this, it is the 202nd day of 2025. Given a year has approximately 365 days in it, we're well past half way through it! I'm beginning to think about fall weather and seasonal holidays when, in my MIND at least, things begin to feel a little slower paced. Am I delusional? May be.

Tuesday, August 5th at 6:30pm I plan to show the documentary "Far from the Tree" at the Sunflower Center. This video, inspired by Andrew Solomon's best-selling book, profiles several families in which parents and their children have substantial differences. The movie is free to the public and is the 2nd film I've chosen to show for the year period June '25 to June '26. Other titles I plan to show are "The Public", "First People in Kansas", and "It's a Wonderful Life", with some kids movies thrown in here and there. I've also spoken to Tiny Town Tours and they've given us their blessings to show any of their films. If anyone would like to see something in particular, just let me know!

I do plan on having one more SRP on Friday, August 8th at the Library, 2pm. At this one we'll talk about WEATHER and how to be prepared for a possible incident. We've had so many weather disasters across the country—tornados, floods, fires, and it's time to start thinking about blizzards—and they can be scary! My goal is to encourage respect FOR and not a fear OF nature's power and unpredictability. By having a plan in place BEFORE something happens perhaps some of those natural fears can be assuaged. We have new rotating books, the air conditioner is working great, there's ice water in the fridge, and I'd love to have someone to play a game of Skipbo with on occasion!

Come in and see us!

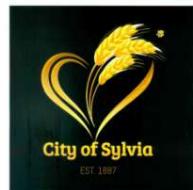

Tuesdays and Fridays, 1-6 at least.
